

Expansion of an Empire

by OwnageFanfics

Category: Fire Emblem

Genre: Adventure, Drama

Language: English

Characters: OC, Priam

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2016-04-09 00:19:18

Updated: 2016-04-09 00:19:18

Packaged: 2016-04-27 21:35:41

Rating: T

Chapters: 1

Words: 1,414

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: How did it all began? With a powerful empire conquering land by land. What is the history behind all this? How did one man manage to fight when almost all odds are against him as he first fight the Nilfgaardian Empire? Very late Romance. Fire Emblem X Witcher crossover. Takes place after Awakening. Prequel to Fire Emblem World War.

Expansion of an Empire

For those who played Witcher, I'm going to do my scenario.(?) for bullet points.

?-Geralt and Yennefer are together

?-Nilfgaard won the war

?-Bloody Baron's wife lives

?-Ciri chose the life of an Empress(in training)(In this fanfic, Emhyr is still Emperor)

?-Cerys is Queen of Skellige

Chapter 1: Meeting the White Wolf

Cinata

Einion, a High Prince of Daein, had his eyes on Nilfgaard as he announce his ambition to expand the Daein Empire, he liberated all the Kingdoms of the North, Redania, Kaedwin, Aerdirn, and Temeria with rebels of the native nations as the kingdoms he liberated became the new vessel state for Daein as they declare him as Emperor of the North and worshipped as a god. Einion had Skellige summited to Daein rule quickly after negotiations, admiring their fearless and warlike nature in the past. He paid homage to them and while in Daein rule, Skellige is to continue to live their customs, traditions, and laws as well and allow to let Daein place military bases in different parts of the island as the fight is brutal in their first battle. Cerys agree to the terms Einion had gave them as rumors of Daein conquering nations of Skyrim, Thedas, Westros, Essos, and Sothoryos with an iron fist. Not only that, Daein also send tributes of gold and silver to build and buy a prosperous Skellige 100 times over. With that, Skellige agrees to live under the rule of Daein as they see promises in it and they had lost many men trying to fight Einion off.

After conquering Cinata, Einion heard of a strong witcher and his love living in a house away from politics. Every stories that he heard about this witcher, respect grows in him as he had his men searching for this witcher. As they find the witcher's new home, Einion along with his guards went to the house that locates in forest. He rides on his large wyvern named Hurricane. His armor as black as the night yet strong like mithril, his helmet shaped as a dragon with its wings on the side yet his eyes appears while the mouth is covered by a mask of silk, and his knuckles on his gauntlets are like swords. His sword is long and the blade is wide with the color of sapphire blue.

"So, this is where the mighty Geralt of Rivia lives?" Einion asks.

"Yes, your Highness." A Daein centurion answers.

Einion narrow his eyes, believes that a strong individual should be living in a large house of many gold, not a cabin!

The door open to reveal a grown man with long white hair along with a woman in black dress. They look at the Daein army in front of their house and the man asks, "What do you want?"

"We are here to meet with a famous witcher Geralt of Rivia. We heard that many tales and we believes that he lives here. We mean you no harm." A Daein centurion replies.

"Well, you found me." The man replies, confirming himself to be the witcher they seek which means Yennefer is the woman with him. After Geralt confirm himself to be the famous witcher, Einion have his wyvern to walk forward and says in a calm and respectable tone, "Many stories I heard about you, White Wolf. Happy and sad stories from many. We are here to see if we are able to recruit the mighty witcher who defeated the infamous Wild Hunt. I've come to see if you're interested in helping fight Emhyr and the Empire of Nilfgaard."

"And who am I speaking to?" Geralt asks.

"I am the High Prince of the Daein Empire and Emperor and Liberator of the North, Einion." Einion replies, introducing himself in a respectable manner.

"And why recruit a witcher? How many do you have in your army? 100,000? Half a million?" Geralt doesn't want any of it. His daughter, well... adopted daughter is the heir to the Nilfgaardian throne, and siding with Einion might be siding against his daughter.

Einion sigh and dismount from his wyvern. He held his hand up to his wyvern and order the wyvern to stay. He turn and approach the two and reply, "Let us talk inside your 'lovely' house."

Einion, followed by two of his retainers, Priam(Yes, Priam from Awakening) son of Ike and Huojin of the Kuei Ryu. Priam wears black armor and a ruined red cape. His hair is messy and long as it reaches down his neck and his sword is long with silver blade. Huojin wears a mountain pattern armor made from jade and a helmet with a red feather as a plume.

They sit down and face each other as Einion put bags of gold and push it towards Geralt. Geralt holds his hand up, "I don't want your coin nor am I interested in fighting with you nor will I go back to politics."

"This is not what you think. I insist you take it as my respect. The world works based on our abilities such as war. Strength prevails all and shall strength change the world. You've heard of this, have you not?" Einion asks, believe that these lands know of his grandfather who almost destroyed the world by trying to summon the dark god.

"Believe that I haven't. What now? Are you now trying to persuade me to join you? Even if you fight or not, I can't join you." Geralt replies, feel that he would betray the one who he and his lover cared about throughout their life. The person they cared was their adopted daughter who is trained to be the empress of Nilfgaard.

Huojin, one of Einion four retainers tighten his fist and shout, "You've got some nerve to talk in a rude manner!"

Einion holds his hand up and says, "It's alright."

"Right!" Huojin calms down.

"Maybe we got on the wrong foot here. What I was saying that I've plan to subjugate the Nilfgaardian Empire to its knees, not destroy it. I vow to bring peace in these lands and I expected battles after battles, the Emperor himself will present a peace treaty. My father rules the strongest empire the world ever seen and commands men in hundreds of thousands. Unlike other nations, we care not in privileges of noble birth nor the spoil brat of one noble. We judge by people ability of the world and only those who process such ability stays in the world while those who cannot submit. I defeated the Fell Dragon Grima and I am the wielder of one of the thirteen stones of power yet my own rival who is my foolish of a brother seek to demoralize me to see I fail. I can't force you to be recruited by me but if only we could see common ground, I believe you would join the lesser evil, do you not? If so, do you think Emhyr var Emreis is the lesser evil than I? We both murder, I know, but he did attack in a most cowardly manner such as assassination of the King who you respected, Foltest is it?" Einion's negotiation skills are sharp and his plan to get the witcher to join his side is a 50/50 chance.

"Don't remind me. I don't plan to join either you or Emhyr. What is it in for Yennefer and I?" Geralt asks, want to hear the offer of Daein itself.

"I know witchers and sorceress are sterile. Help us win the war and I will work to restore your fertility and I will request that my father restore the five witcher schools to the globe." Einion offers, unable to see how Geralt won't accept that.

"Tempting but no." Geralt replies and Einion stand up from his chair.

Unsatisfied but he will not try any more force upon the witcher. Finally, he says before he lead his retainers out of the house, "Very well then. I will not try any further but let me warn you. Side with Nilfgaard for whatever reasons, I shall see you dead under my sword." Einion doesn't know about the relations between Geralt, Yennefer, and Ciri as he believes Ciri is the daughter of Emhyr. Well, yes, she is but she's was adopted by Geralt and Yennefer after the fall of Cinata.

End
file.